

Women's Suffrage in the West

This lesson will focus on:

- where women won the right to vote in the West
- when and how women won the right to vote in the West
- that equality for women beyond the right to vote was not guaranteed

Part I uses primary sources to establish the background on voting rights in the United States Constitution prior to the 19th Amendment and the ratification—approval—of the 19th Amendment.

Part II helps define the American West through a mapping activity (Part A). The mapping activity continues, adding what type of suffrage women won in western states along with when they won it using information on State Suffrage Cards (Part B).

Part III introduces the Paths to State Suffrage infographic and documents evidence from the map and State Suffrage Cards on how suffrage was won and what type of suffrage (full or partial). Questions are posed for further analysis and to assist in writing a claim about women's suffrage.

Part IV provides an exploration of the 19th Amendment, evaluating which western states ratified the amendment, adding it to the map and making a claim about western states and ratification.

Part V offers an investigation about how the right to vote for women did not mean equality for women and what inequalities still exist today.

There is a survey at the end of the lesson to gauge interest in complementary lessons and activities on why women won given the right to vote in the West, equal suffrage and minority women's right to vote, tactics used by activist women and organizations, and other topics to further delve into women's suffrage in the West.

Student Handout

Women’s suffrage—the right to vote—was not part of the United States Constitution until the 19th Amendment was passed in 1920. The 19th Amendment added to the Constitution “the right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.” However, long before the 19th Amendment, women won the right to vote in either full or partial suffrage in territories and states across the West.

The West led the way for women’s suffrage in the United States beginning with the women’s suffrage law of 1869 in the Territory of Wyoming. Women won the right to vote in other areas across the West as Western territories became states, but well before the national amendment passed. Although they hadn’t received full suffrage yet, women won the right to vote in local school and Presidential elections in certain states. While women in many states east of the Mississippi River failed to win their campaigns for full or partial suffrage, women in 23 of the 24 territories/states west of the Mississippi River won some type of suffrage by the time the passage of the 19th Amendment. In 14 of those territories/states, women had full suffrage rights compared to the eastern states, where only Massachusetts, New York, and Michigan had women’s suffrage by the time of the 19th Amendment’s ratification in 1920.

Despite the West’s advancements for women through suffrage, the right to vote didn’t apply to all women in western states and territories. Even the 19th Amendment did not include women’s suffrage for all. In 1920, Native Americans and Asian immigrants in the U.S. were not considered United States citizens. So state and federal laws and guarantees to rights such as suffrage didn’t apply to them. After the 19th Amendment passed, many states created local laws that limited the rights of Black and Latina women to vote by imposing literacy tests, taxes, and voting laws requiring an understanding of the English language.

Although women gained representation with the right to vote, they still faced inequality or discrimination in the workforce, education, and in other ways. Throughout the years, additional federal laws and amendments have been proposed to provide equal rights for women. But the larger question would remain, did the right to vote guarantee equality for women?

Part I: Background – Voting Rights in the United States Constitution

Task: Individually, in groups, or as a class (per your teacher’s instructions), read through the following excerpts and answer the questions that follow.

Suffrage—the right to vote—is a right guaranteed in most democratic constitutions. However, the United States Constitution does not say citizens have the right to vote. Instead, the Constitution infers, or suggests the right to vote for representatives in the legislature, the U.S. Congress.

“The House of Representatives shall be composed of Members chosen every second Year by the People of the several States ...” Article I Section 2, United States Constitution.

“The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, ...” changed in 1913 to “elected by the people thereof, ...” Article I Section 3, United States Constitution. Amendment XVII (17), United States Constitution.

The Constitution gives states the power to make laws and rules about voting and elections but says the federal government can change or alter those laws through Congress.

“The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations.” Article I Section 4, United States Constitution.

In 1870, Congress created the first change to voting through an amendment, or addition to the Constitution. The Fifteenth Amendment gave African American men the right to vote.

“The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude - The Congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.” Amendment XV (15), Sections 1-2, United States Constitution.

Who had the right to vote in the United States per the Constitution and amendments prior to the 19th Amendment in 1920? (Use the bolded sections from the text to help you).

People, of each state, citizens, of any race, color or prior servitude—enslaved—status

How did the 19th Amendment (excerpted below) change the right to vote in the United States in 1920?

“The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on the account of sex.” Amendment XIX (19), United States Constitution.

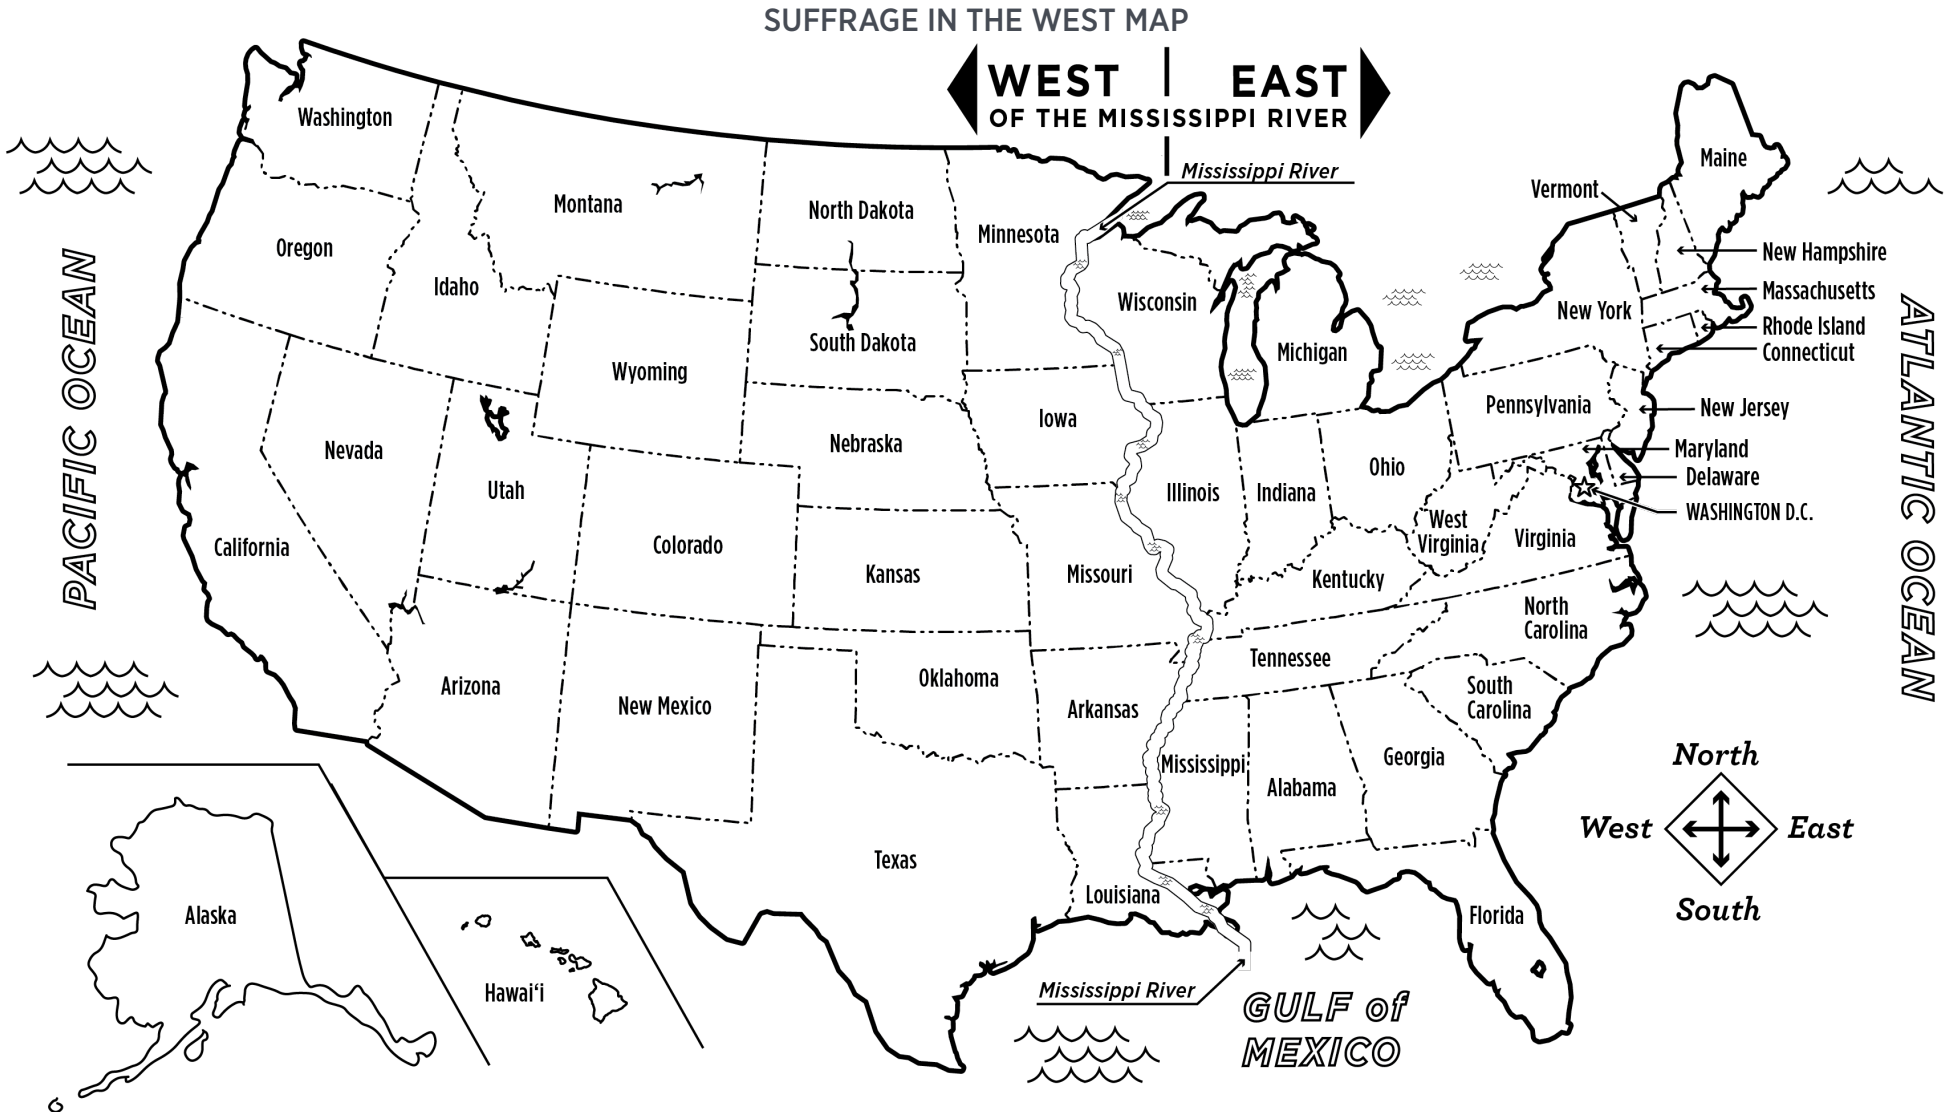

Citizens of any sex = gender

Part II - A: What is the American West?

To understand how western states in the United States led the way for women's suffrage, we need to answer the question What is the West? The Autry Museum defines the West as everything west of or to the left of the Mississippi River as shown on this map.

Task: Trace the line of the Mississippi River. How many states are in the West? 24

Teacher Guide

Part II – B: Mapping Suffrage in the West

This is intended to be a full class activity.

- Each student is assigned a state card. There are 24 State Suffrage Cards.
- Teachers will ask a question about suffrage.
- Students read their State Suffrage Card to see if the question applies to their assigned state.
- If so, students can stand up in the classroom and read off their state OR show their State Suffrage Card on the distance learning screen.
- Then the class should label the map from Part II-A accordingly.

For each question,

- Read the question.
- Ask students to look at their assigned State Suffrage Cards to see if their state answers the question. The information is in the top heading of the State Suffrage Card.
- Once students read through their cards, ask students whose states answered the question to stand up or hold up their card on their distance learning screen. Call on each of the students to say their state name. Students standing or holding up their cards can sit or put the cards down.
- Instruct students to complete the mapping activity according to each question.
- Have students say their state name again one by one, giving students time to color it and label it according to each question.

1. In which territories did women win suffrage—the right to vote—before statehood?

On the map,

- Color those territories yellow (or shade in the states with a pencil) on the map.
- Write the territorial date on the map and label it “Territory”.
- Write the date when women won the right to vote before statehood on the map and label it “Vote”.

For territories that won suffrage and had it revoked,

- Put dots in the territory.
- Next to “Vote” put the date when full suffrage and label it “Restored”.

For territories that won suffrage in the territory but did not have suffrage in federal elections,

- Put diagonals in the territory.
- Next to “Vote” put the date of federal elections and label it “Federal”.

2. In which states did women win suffrage - the right to vote - after statehood, but before the 19th Amendment (August 1920).

On the map,

- Color those states light green (or put dots in the states with a pencil) on the map.
- Write the statehood date on the map and label it “Statehood.”
- Write the date when women won the right to vote after statehood, but before the 19th Amendment on the map and label it “Vote.”

3. In which states did women win the partial suffrage – the right to vote - before the 19th Amendment (August 1920) through voting in Presidential elections or in state, local, and other elections.

On the map,

- Color those states light blue (or put diagonals in the states with a pencil) on the map.
- Write the statehood date on the map and label it “Statehood.”
- Write the date when women won the partial right to vote before the 19th Amendment on the map and label it with the type or types of voting right – “Schools” or “President” “Tax” or “City.”

For territories that won suffrage and had it revoked,

- Put dots in the territory.

Part III-A: Paths to Suffrage in the West

In this section, it's important to note that states had their own constitutions and that amendments meant amendments to the state constitution.

A. Guide students through each path women's suffrage was won in states. See additional notes for each path.

Women's suffrage became part of state constitutions in territories/states in three different ways as the graphic below shows:

1. Written into the constitution: Territories and states held constitutional conventions to draft a state constitution. In order to become a state, territories had to meet certain requirements and one was a state constitution. Territories held constitutional conventions to create a constitution and become a state. After statehood, states held constitutional conventions to revise their state constitutions.
2. Put to a vote by the people in an initiative: Initiatives varied in territories and states, but the general idea is that the people of the state bring up an issue and put it to a vote on an election ballot. This required a petition with enough signatures designated by a state. Sometimes the issue was "Should women have the right to vote?" and other times it was "Should the legislature consider the question of women's suffrage?"
3. Passed by the legislature and then approved by voters through a referendum: If students are unfamiliar, you may need to spend more time on the legislative process – how a bill or amendment becomes a law. The referendum is a vote by the state electors on a bill or amendment passed by the legislature.

B. Each of these paths was attempted many times by suffragists in their fight for the right to vote and failed. Highlight how and where the process could have failed. See notes below for each path.

1. Written into the constitution: Suffrage may have been brought up at a state constitutional convention, but it may not have been included.
2. Put to a vote by the people in an initiative: If there were not enough signatures on the petition for the suffrage initiative, it could not go to voters. In some states, if the signatures were from females, they didn't count because they weren't registered voters. If a simple majority did not approve the initiative, the suffrage amendment failed.
3. Passed by the legislature and then approved by voters through a referendum: The suffrage amendment to the state constitution could have failed in many different steps.
 - Once introduced into a legislative house/chamber, the bill to amend the constitution to include suffrage went to committee. The committee may not have approved it.
 - If the committee approved the suffrage bill, it went to a debate and vote. If the members of the house/chamber did not approve it after the debate and vote, it did not move to the other house/chamber.
 - If the suffrage amendment did pass the original house/chamber, it had to go through the entire process in the second house/chamber. In the second house/chamber, the suffrage bill could have failed in committee or after the debate and vote.
 - If the suffrage bill was approved by both houses/chambers, in some states, it had to pass the Governor. If the Governor vetoed the bill, the suffrage amendment failed.
 - If the Legislature and Governor passed the suffrage amendment it went to voters. If a simple majority did not approve the referendum, the suffrage amendment failed.

Part III-B: Analyzing Suffrage in the West

This activity will help answer the following questions about Women’s Suffrage in the West:

- Which states in the West led the way for women’s suffrage?
- What type of suffrage (full or partial) did they win?
- How was suffrage won in these states?

Table A: Full Suffrage Prior to Statehood

In which states did women win full suffrage before they became a state, as a U.S. Territory?

Task #1: Use the Suffrage in the West map to fill out the last column for the date women won full suffrage in each territory.

Call on students who have the states in the table to fill out the last column.

STATE NAME	U.S. TERRITORY/STATEHOOD DATE	FULL SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN DATE
Wyoming	1869 (territory); 1890 (state)	1869
Utah	1848 (territory); 1896 (state)	1870; revoked in 1887; re-instated in 1896 at statehood
Washington	1853 (territory); 1889 (state)	1883; revoked in 1887; re-instated in 1910
Alaska	1912 (territory); 1959 (state)	1913 territory; federal elections 1959 at statehood

Ask class to analyze the table and share their observations: What do you notice about Table A?

Suggested Prompts:

- What do you notice about the territories/states and full suffrage? These were all territories when full suffrage was first won
- What do you notice about Utah and Washington? Full suffrage was revoked
- What do you notice about Alaska? No voting in federal elections until 1959

Teacher Guide, Student Handout and Answer Key

For the following questions, the teacher should call on students with the appropriate State Suffrage Card to share information/answer to the question.

Task #2: Classmates who have the states in the table should use information on their State Suffrage Card to find the answers to the following questions and share with their classmates.

Finish each numbered item below with blank line and insert one additional blank line below each

1. Why was women's suffrage revoked in Utah Territory? The U.S. passed the Edmund's-Tucker Act which banned polygamy (multiple wives) and took away women's right to vote in the state even though the Utah Territory had given that right.
2. Why was women's suffrage revoked in Washington? 1887 the Territorial Supreme Court overturned the law for women's suffrage. Another law was passed in 1888 but was also overturned.
3. Why was different about the Alaska Territory? The Alaska Territory won suffrage a year before it became a territory, but people of territories could only vote in territorial matters; until it became a state in 1959, women (or men) in Alaska could not vote in federal elections.
4. Why is Wyoming important? It had full suffrage as a territory and wasn't revoked; it was the first in the world to grant women's suffrage.
5. How did women win the right to vote in each of these territories? Women's suffrage was a bill passed into law by the territorial legislature WY, AK. UT and WA passed bills the first time before revoked.

Summary Question: What does this data and information tell you about women's suffrage prior to statehood?

Potential responses: Wyoming was the first in the world to grant women's suffrage, territories could not vote in federal elections; the right to vote in a state could be taken away by courts and by the U.S. government.

Table B: Full Suffrage Before the 19th Amendment

In which states did women win full suffrage before the passage of the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution in 1920?

Task #1: Use the Suffrage in the West map to fill out the last column for the date women won full suffrage in each state.

Call on students who have the states in the table to fill out the last column.

STATE NAME	U.S. TERRITORY/STATEHOOD DATE	FULL SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN DATE
Wyoming	1869 (territory); 1890 (state)	1869
Colorado	1876 (state)	1893
Idaho	1862 (territory); 1890 (state)	1896
Utah	1850 (territory); 1896 (state)	1870; revoked in 1887; re-instated in 1896 at statehood
Washington	1853 (territory); 1889 (state)	1883; revoked in 1887; re-instated in 1910
California	1850 (state)	1911
Arizona	1912 (state)	1912
Oregon	1859 (state)	1912
Kansas	1861 (state)	1912
Alaska	1898 (territory); 1959 (state)	1913 territorial elections; Presidential elections at statehood
Montana	1889 (state)	1914
Nevada	1914 (state)	1914
Oklahoma	1907 (state)	1918

Ask class to analyze the table and share their observations: What do you notice about Table B?

Suggested Prompts:

- What do you notice about where the states are located and when women's suffrage was won? Use the map and the table to provide specific examples. Wyoming, Colorado, Idaho and Utah are near each other and the latter 3 gave women the right to vote in the 1890's; Washington, California, Arizona, Oregon, and Nevada are all near each other and gave women the right to vote between 1911 and 1914. Oklahoma and Nebraska were not part of these blocs of women's suffrage laws.
- Did women win the right to vote in some states during the same year they became a state? If so, which states? Utah in 1896, Arizona in 1912 and Nevada in 1914.

Teacher Guide, Student Handout and Answer Key

For the following questions, the teacher should call on students with the appropriate State Suffrage Card to share information/answer to the question.

Task #2: Use the table and classmates to answer the following questions.

Look at Table B.

1. In many of these territories and states, partial suffrage was won prior to full suffrage. Which states that had full suffrage by 1920 also had partial suffrage?

- School elections: CO, ID, AZ, OR, MT, OK
- Municipal/city elections: KS
- Tax issues: MT

Classmates who have the states in the table should use information on their State Suffrage Card to find the answers to the following questions and share with their classmates.

2. How did women win the right to vote in each of these states? Put a tally mark or the state abbreviation next to the options as your classmates share the answers from the State Suffrage Card.

- Women's suffrage was written into the state constitution: UT (the second time)
- Women's suffrage was an initiative where voters in the state put forth the suffrage question directly to voters: AZ, OR
- Women's suffrage was a referendum where voters in the state required the suffrage law passed by the legislature to be approved by voters: CO, ID, WA, CA, KS, MT, NV OK, SD

Summary Question: What does this data and information tell you about the states where women won full suffrage before the 19th Amendment (1920)?

Potential responses: states near each other influenced full suffrage laws; There were several waves of suffrage in the 1890's and 1910-14; western states granting full suffrage in various ways, but most did so through state referendums.

Table C: Partial Suffrage Before the 19th Amendment

In which states did women win partial suffrage before 1920?

Task #1: Use the Suffrage in the West map to fill out the last column for the date women won partial suffrage in each state.

Call on students who have the states in the table to fill out the last column.

STATE NAME	FULL SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN	PARTIAL SUFFRAGE – local elections (school, city, taxes)	PARTIAL SUFFRAGE – President of the U.S.
Louisiana	1920 (with 19th Amendment passage); ratified: June 1970	1898 taxes
New Mexico	1920 (19th Amendment passage); ratified: Dec. 1919	1911 school elections
Nebraska	1920 (19th Amendment passage); ratified: August 1919	1869 school elections; 1917 municipal (city) elections	1917 President
Minnesota	1920 (19th Amendment passage); ratified: Sept. 1919	1875 school elections	1919 President
North Dakota	1920 (with 19th Amendment passage); ratified: Dec. 1919	1883 school elections	1917 President
Iowa	1920 (with 19th Amendment passage); ratified: July 1919	1894 school elections; 1894 municipal (city) elections	1919 President
Arkansas	1920 (with 19th Amendment passage); ratified: July 1919		1917 Primary elections
Texas	1920 (with 19th Amendment passage); ratified: June 1919		1918 state primaries (choosing candidates for general election)
Missouri	1920 (19th Amendment passage); ratified: July 1919		1919 President

Ask class to analyze the table and share their observations: What do you notice about Table C?

Suggested Prompts:

- What do you notice about Partial Suffrage won in these states? Partial suffrage was for school elections and presidential, some city and tax, a lot of states gave school suffrage earlier and Presidential suffrage later 1915-1919.
- What do you notice about Full Suffrage? Full suffrage was at ratification of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.
- What do you notice about Ratification? All but Louisiana ratified the 19th Amendment in 1919.

Teacher Guide, Student Handout and Answer Key

For the following questions, the teacher should call on students with the appropriate State Suffrage Card to share information/answer to the question.

Task #2: Use the table and classmates to answer the following questions.

Look at Table C.

1. In many of these states, partial suffrage was won prior to full suffrage. Which states won partial suffrage prior to 1920 for the following?

• School elections: NM, NE, ND, MN, IO

• Municipal/city elections: IO, NB

• Tax issues: LA

• Presidential elections: NB, ND, MN, IO, AR, TX, MO

Classmates who have the states in the table should use information on their State Suffrage Card to find the answers to the following questions and share with their classmates.

2. Were there other political efforts to gain full suffrage prior to the 19th Amendment? Put a tally mark or the state abbreviation next to the options as your classmates share the answers from the State Suffrage Card.

• State Constitution: Attempts to have suffrage written into constitutions at constitutional conventions: LA, NM, MN, AR, TX

• State Legislature: Suffrage bills or amendments introduced to the legislature but never passed: LA, NE, ND, IO, AR, TX, MO

• Initiative: Suffrage Amendment put to a vote by the people but not approved by voters: MO

• Referendum: Suffrage Amendment put to a vote by the people after passing the legislature but not approved by voters: LA, ND, IO

Task #3: There is one state we haven't heard from. Look at the map. What state is it? Hawaii

Why is this state different than all the others in how women's suffrage was won?

Hawaii was a U.S. Territory. With the 19th Amendment passage, women won the right to vote in territorial elections, but not until it became a state in 1959 could women (or men) vote in federal elections.

Summary Question: What does this data and information tell you about the states where women won only partial suffrage before the 19th Amendment (1920)?

Potential responses: women won the right to vote in local school elections early on, women won the right to vote in presidential elections, states won the full right to vote with the 19th amendment but all except Louisiana officially ratified it. Most states fought for suffrage in multiple ways, at constitutional conventions, in the legislature and putting the issue to voters.

(This can also be done by constitutional convention, but that has never been used). Once Congress passes the proposal to amend the Constitution, three-fourths of states' legislatures must approve the amendment.

On May 19, 1919, the U.S. House of Representatives passed a joint resolution (agreement) of Congress to amend the Constitution to include women's suffrage. On June 4, 1919, the U.S. Senate passed the resolution. Thirty-six of the forty-nine states at the time had to ratify it (Alaska and Hawaii were territories). Tennessee was the thirty-sixth state to ratify the 19th Amendment on August 18, 1920. The United States Secretary of State certified the ratification on August 26, 1920. All states were required to give women the right to vote.

Part V – A: Connect to Today Women’s Equality Today

Joint Resolution of March 22, 1972, Proposing an Amendment to the Constitution of the United States Relative to Equal Rights for Men and Women.

August 2020 was the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which made women’s right to vote in all states guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution. As you learned in this lesson, many women in western territories and states of the U.S. had some form of suffrage long before the 19th Amendment was passed in 1920.

Though women won the right to vote, did women achieve equality?

Many women didn’t think so. In 1923, an Equal Rights Amendment was introduced in Congress to provide more equal rights. It didn’t pass. It has been reintroduced at every session of Congress since then. In 1972, the Equal Rights Amendment passed both houses of Congress and was submitted to the states for ratification. Unlike the 19th Amendment, which states ratified in 14 months, the Equal Rights Amendment had still not passed ten years later in 1982.

Do women have equality today? Think about women in politics, property, marriage, jobs, sports, etc.

Part IV – B: Researching Women’s Equality Today

1. Research equal rights for women today.
2. Find a present-day example of an individual, organization, campaign, political action, protest, etc.
3. Pick an image that represents that person, organization, or campaign’s fight for equal women’s rights.
4. Add the image to a Class Collage (physical collage or digital collage).
5. Share out to classmates; classmates take notes.

Making a Claim about Women’s Equality Today

Use the evidence from Part IV to make a claim about the status of equality for women 100 hundred years after the ratification of the 19th Amendment in the West.

Claim: While the West led the way for full women’s suffrage and the 19th Amendment made it a federal constitutional guarantee, it didn’t mean equality for women. One hundred years later ...
